Speaker Chairman: Bruce McIntosh

Speaker: Walter O'Brien

"Chasing Human Error"

Walter O'Brien may well be the "The World's Most Intelligent" self-made man. He was born in the sunny South East of Ireland where it only rains 80% of the time. This farmer's son started his first computer company at 13. He graduated with honors in Computer Science and Artificial Intelligence. He entered high speed programming competitions including the 1993 World Olympics and ranked as 6th fastest programmer in the world. In 2001 he was granted a special visa by the US Government that was previously awarded to Albert Einstein and Winston Churchill for extraordinary ability (he is now a US citizen). He turned down a job offer from Bill Gates but has contributed to the growth of companies such as ORACLE, Microsoft & others.
